EDUCATION.

N. R. SMITH respectfully informs his patrons and the public, that on the 1st of April next, he will move to the spacious and convenient room, recently occupied by Mr. M'Clelagh, at the corner of Third and Ferry streets, where ample accommodations, will be made for the young ladies who lately applied for admission into his academy.

Having made what I conceive to be an essential improvement in the mode of teaching English Grammar, I will undertake to instruct a class composed of males or females, 15 or 20 in number, from 12 to 18 years of age, on the following terms: I will engage to teach such a class ENGLISH GRAMMAR, including orthography, etymology, syntax, and prosody, theoretical and practical, in 40 hours, one hour in each day, from 5 to 6 o'clock, P. M. If I do not succeed to the satisfaction of the pupils, I will make no charge: But if I shall perform what I undertake, I will charge $5 per scholar.

If any gentleman will send his son, between 11 and 15 years of age, to my academy, for one week, with a view to test the efficiency of my system of teaching English Grammar, the instruction shall be given gratis.

Remedy for the Piles.

THE medicine now offered to the public is one which has been fully subjected to the infallible test of experience, and in every instance where it has been fairly tried, it has been attended with the most complete success. In some of the cases, the patients had been laboring under the disease for years, and during that period had received the best medical advice, and had even undergone a painful surgical operation, without permanent advantage. It is not (like them usually advertised,) offered as a certain cure, for a long catalogue of diseases, but those afflicted with this complaint, for which alone it is recommended, may rely with confidence [illegible] obtaining relief, even in its worst forms, [illegible] time, and they themselves are the best judges of the importance of such a remedy. Price 50 cents per box, with directions signed by the proprietor. Prepared and sold at Anderson's or Mellen's Cough Drops.

Valuable Medicine for Coughs and Consumptions.

THE high reputation that Anderson's COUGH DROPS and PECTORAL POWDERS have gained for Coughs and other affections of the breast and lungs, leading to consumptions, renders it unnecessary to say much in recommending them to the public, as no stronger proof of their possessing uncommon virtues could be given than will be found by reading the certificates accompanying each bottle, given by those of the first respectability who have used them in cases of long standing, and some of them, where their physicians have given them up as past recovery, have been entirely restored by the use of this medicine. The fact that they have now been in use five years, and that the demand the present season has been greater than at any former period, is also a strong argument in their favor.—Thousands have shortened their days by neglecting Coughs when first attacked, which have soon terminated in a seated consumption and proved fatal. Scarcely a case of colds, coughs, pain in the side, difficulty of breathing, want of sleep arising from debility, or even consumptions, but may be relieved by a timely use of this Healing Balsam. Each dollar bottle of this medicine, contains about 40 doses, which proves them to be a cheap medicine, considering their virtues.

NEW CERTIFICATES.

I hereby certify, that for more than a year previous to 1821, I was afflicted with a troublesome and alarming cough, which rendered me unable to labor or even to walk many rods, without causing profuse sweating, and after trying many things without relief, I obtained a vial of Anderson's Cough Drops, from the use of which I soon found great relief, so as to be able to resume and continue my usual labor, and I have reason to believe that the use of them was the means of saving my life, as I had but little hopes of recovering again when I commenced taking them, and I think them undoubtedly the best medicine in use for complaints of the lungs.

Hudson, May 20, 1823. ELISHA DAVIS.

I hereby certify, that for a number of years previous to 1818, I was troubled with a cough and pain in my breast, and in the spring of that year, I grew worse and was considered to be in a consumption and applied to several physicians, tried various kinds of medicine without any material relief; having noticed the recommendations of Anderson's Cough Drops in such complaints, I procured a vial of them in Hudson, from which I soon found relief, and after taking a few vials of them, I was restored to a tolerable good state of health, which has continued for 3 years past, and I can cheerfully recommend them to those laboring under similar complaints.

Hudson, July 11, 1823. ZACH. HAWS

This is to certify, that I, the subscriber, had been afflicted with the Asthma for twenty years, and the paroxysms were often so violent as nearly to deprive me of breath. During one of the most violent returns of the Asthma, I was advised to try Anderson's Cough Drops, and I did so, and to my surprise, I was very soon entirely relieved, and felt no more of it for six months.—Upon a return of a paroxysm of the asthma, I have made use of the same medicine and it has invariably given me relief. As it respects the asthma, and its attendant symptoms, difficulty of breathing, &c. I consider Anderson's Cough Drops a remedy in praise of which too much cannot be said. I further certify, that my son-in-law had for some time been supposed to be past recovery of a consumptive complaint, when I advised him to make a trial of Anderson's Cough Drops, and from the use of them he has so far recovered his health as to be again able to attend to business.

Laws of Pennsylvania.

A further supplement to the act, entitled "An act to regulate arbitrations."

Section 1. That in all cases in which a judgment on an award of arbitrators may be reversed by the supreme court, the said court is hereby authorized to order the record of the suit to be remitted to the court from which it may have been removed, in order that such further proceeding may be had in the cause as the justice of the case may require.

Approved, February 23, 1824.

A supplement to the act, entitled, "An act laying a duty on retailers of foreign Merchandise."

Section 1. That it shall be the duty of the respective clerks of the several mayors' courts and courts of quarter sessions, within this commonwealth, immediately after receiving from the constables of the different wards and townships, the list containing the names of the retailers of foreign merchandise, within their respective cities and counties, to transmit to the auditor general, a copy of the same, under the seal of court; and it shall be the duty of the auditor general to charge the treasurers of the said cities and counties, respectively, with the amount payable by the several persons mentioned in said lists, from the payment of which the said treasurers shall be exonerated only by producing satisfactory evidence to the accountant department that the person or persons so returned were not retailers of foreign merchandise, according to the true intent and meaning of the act to which this is a supplement, or that it was impracticable to recover and collect the same.

Section 2. That instead of prosecuting against delinquents by indictment, in the manner directed by the act to which this is a supplement, it shall be the duty of the proper city or county treasurer to institute a suit, before any alderman or justice of the peace, in the name of the commonwealth, within three months of June and December, in every year, against such delinquent retailer as aforesaid for the amount of duty payable agreeably to law, adding thereto fifty per cent. as a further compensation to the treasurer for his trouble in suing for and recovering the same; and upon judgment being obtained or entered against any person or persons refusing or neglecting to pay the amount of said duty, execution shall issue for the amount thereof with the addition of said fifty per cent. together with costs of suit, after the expiration of twenty days, unless the person or persons, believing him, her, or themselves, to have been aggrieved by the decision of the said aldermen or justice, shall appeal within the said term of twenty days, after the rendering of said judgment, to the court of common pleas of the proper county, which said appeal shall be made and conducted in the same manner and be subject to the same provisions, in every particular, as other appeals in cases of other debts of like amount recoverable before any alderman or justice of the peace. Provided, That the person or persons so intending to appeal, first do declare on oath or affirmation, in writing, to be filed by said alderman or justice of the peace, that he, she or they verily believe injustice has been done to them, and the said appeal is not made for the purpose of delay, and it shall be the duty of the attorney general, or his deputy residing in the said city or county, to prosecute such appeal to judgment, for which he shall receive the sum of three dollars and no more. And provided, that in all cases of appeals, the jury or arbitrators trying the same, shall decide whether the party appealing or the commonwealth shall pay the costs of suit, and when the decision is against the commonwealth the cost shall be paid out of the county treasury. But in no case shall the commonwealth pay costs, except where the party appealing is not a retailer of foreign merchandise, or has not produced any other testimony on the appeal than what was produced before the justice of the peace or alderman, from whom the cause was originally tried. And provided further, Where the justice of the peace or alderman shall decide against the commonwealth, the costs of suit shall be paid out of the county treasury.

Section 3. That if any person or persons shall have more than one store, in which foreign merchandise is vended, such person or persons shall be required to take out a license for each and every store, and it shall be the duty of a constable to make return of every such store.

Section 4. That the treasurers shall make regular entries in a book to be kept by them for that purpose, of all monies received by them respectively, for licenses granted and duties paid, specifying the name or names of the parties, the several rates and amount of duties, and the year for which the said license hath issued, or the said duty has been paid, and charging themselves with the amount received on account of duties payable during the current year, as also for any preceding year; and that said treasurers shall once in every year, on or before the last day of December, render an account thereof under oath or affirmation, to the auditor general, for settlement by the accountant department, in the usual manner.

Section 5. That in all cases, when any person shall commence as a retailer of foreign merchandise, after the regular yearly period at which licenses are taken out, such person shall, on application, receive a license for the remainder of the year, and shall pay for the same in proportion to the time for which such licenses shall have been granted. Provided, That no person thus commencing, for a fractional part of a year, shall be exonerated from paying the full amount for a license, who does not previous to, or within one month after such commencement, apply for, and take out a license, according to law.

Section 6. That it shall be the duty of the respective treasurers of the several cities and counties, within this commonwealth, annually, in the month of November, to publish, in two newspapers, in the several cities, and one in each county where a paper is published, a list of the names of all persons returned to him as retailers of foreign merchandise, designating those who have and those who have not taken out a license, within their respective cities and counties; and the respective treasurers shall transmit one of the newspapers, in which the names are so published, to the auditor general.

Section 7. That if any alderman, justice of the peace, constable or treasurer, shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties required of him by this act, or the act to which this is supplementary, such officer, so neglecting, shall be considered guilty of a misdemeanor in office, and shall, on conviction of the same before a competent tribunal, forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars, one half to the state and the other to the person or persons who shall prosecute such offender or offenders.

Section 8. That so much of the first section of the act to which this is a supplement, as excepts from execution every person who shall deal in the selling of dry goods, wares or merchandise, wines or distilled liquors, where the same is sold in the original cask, case, box or package, is hereby repealed; and every such person or persons, shall be liable to the same amount of tax as retail merchants now are, and as fully as if they had not been excepted by the act to which this is a supplement.

Section 9. That so much of the act of the second of April, 1821, to which this is supplementary, as is inconsistent herewith, or contrary to this act, be and the same is hereby repealed. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be considered or construed to have the effect of discontinuing any indictment or proceedings heretofore instituted and pending in pursuance of any authority or provision of the said act of the 2d April, 1821; but the same shall be prosecuted to final judgment or otherwise as the act had not been passed.

Approved, March 4, 1824.

Valuable Medicine for Coughs and Consumptions.

THE high reputation that Anderson's COUGH DROPS and PECTORAL POWDERS have gained for Coughs and other affections of the breast and lungs, leading to consumptions, renders it unnecessary to say much in recommending them to the public, as no stronger proof of their possessing uncommon virtues could be given than will be found by reading the certificates accompanying each bottle, given by those of the first respectability who have used them in cases of long standing, and some of them, where their physicians have given them up as past recovery, have been entirely restored by the use of this medicine. The fact that they have now been in use five years, and that the demand the present season has been greater than at any former period, is also a strong argument in their favor.—Thousands have shortened their days by neglecting Coughs when first attacked, which have soon terminated in a seated consumption and proved fatal. Scarcely a case of colds, coughs, pain in the side, difficulty of breathing, want of sleep arising from debility, or even consumptions, but may be relieved by a timely use of this Healing Balsam. Each dollar bottle of this medicine, contains about 40 doses, which proves them to be a cheap medicine, considering their virtues.

NEW CERTIFICATES.

I hereby certify, that for more than a year previous to 1821, I was afflicted with a troublesome and alarming cough, which rendered me unable to labor or even to walk many rods, without causing profuse sweating, and after trying many things without relief, I obtained a vial of Anderson's Cough Drops, from the use of which I soon found great relief, so as to be able to resume and continue my usual labor, and I have reason to believe that the use of them was the means of saving my life, as I had but little hopes of recovering again when I commenced taking them, and I think them undoubtedly the best medicine in use for complaints of the lungs.

Hudson, May 20, 1823. ELISHA DAVIS.

I hereby certify, that for a number of years previous to 1818, I was troubled with a cough and pain in my breast, and in the spring of that year, I grew worse and was considered to be in a consumption and applied to several physicians, tried various kinds of medicine without any material relief; having noticed the recommendations of Anderson's Cough Drops in such complaints, I procured a vial of them in Hudson, from which I soon found relief, and after taking a few vials of them, I was restored to a tolerable good state of health, which has continued for 3 years past, and I can cheerfully recommend them to those laboring under similar complaints.

Hudson, July 11, 1823 ZACH. HAWS

This is to certify, that I, the subscriber, had been afflicted with the Asthma for twenty years, and the paroxysms were often so violent as nearly to deprive me of breath. During one of the most violent returns of the Asthma, I was advised to try Anderson's Cough Drops, and I did so, and to my surprise, I was very soon entirely relieved, and felt no more of it for six months.—Upon a return of a paroxysm of the asthma, I have made use of the same medicine and it has invariably given me relief. As it respects the asthma, and its attendant symptoms, difficulty of breathing, &c. I consider Anderson's Cough Drops a remedy in praise of which too much cannot be said. I further certify, that my son-in-law had for some time been supposed to be past recovery of a consumptive complaint, when I advised him to make a trial of Anderson's Cough Drops, and from the use of them he has so far recovered his health as to be again able to attend to business.

Laws of Pennsylvania.

A further supplement to the act, entitled "An act to regulate arbitrations."

Section 1. That in all cases in which a judgment on an award of arbitrators may be reversed by the supreme court, the said court is hereby authorized to order the record of the suit to be remitted to the court from which it may have been removed, in order that such further proceeding may be had in the cause as the justice of the case may require.

Approved, February 23, 1824.

A supplement to the act, entitled, "An act laying a duty on retailers of foreign Merchandise."

Section 1. That it shall be the duty of the respective clerks of the several mayors' courts and courts of quarter sessions, within this commonwealth, immediately after receiving from the constables of the different wards and townships, the list containing the names of the retailers of foreign merchandise, within their respective cities and counties, to transmit to the auditor general, a copy of the same, under the seal of court; and it shall be the duty of the auditor general to charge the treasurers of the said cities and counties, respectively, with the amount payable by the several persons mentioned in said lists, from the payment of which the said treasurers shall be exonerated only by producing satisfactory evidence to the accountant department that the person or persons so returned were not retailers of foreign merchandise, according to the true intent and meaning of the act to which this is a supplement, or that it was impracticable to recover and collect the same.

Section 2. That instead of proceeding against delinquents by indictment, in the manner directed by the act to which this is a supplement, it shall be the duty of the proper city or county treasurer to institute a suit, before any alderman or justice of the peace, in the name of the commonwealth, within the months of June and December, in every year, against such delinquent retailer as aforesaid for the amount of duty payable agreeably to law, adding thereto ten per cent. as a further compensation to the treasurer, for his trouble in suing for and recovering the same; and upon judgment being obtained or entered against any person or persons refusing or neglecting to pay the amount of said duty, execution shall issue for the amount thereof with the addition of said ten per cent. together with costs of suit, after the expiration of twenty days, unless the person or persons, believing him, her, or themselves, to have been aggrieved by the decision of the said alderman or justice, shall appeal within the said term of twenty days, after the rendering of said judgment, to the court of common pleas of the proper county, which said appeal shall be made and conducted in the same manner and be subject to the same provisions, in every particular, as other appeals in cases of other debts of like amount recoverable before any alderman or justice of the peace. Provided, That the person or persons so intending to appeal, first do declare on oath or affirmation, in writing, to be filed by said alderman or justice of the peace, that he, she or they, verily believe injustice has been done to them, and the said appeal is not made for the purpose of delay, and it shall be the duty of the attorney general, or his deputy residing in the said city or county, to prosecute such appeal to judgment, for which he shall receive the sum of three dollars and no more. And provided, that in all cases of appeals, the jury or arbitrators trying the case, shall decide whether the party appealing or the commonwealth shall pay the costs of suit; and when the decision is against the commonwealth the cost shall be paid out of the county treasury. But in no case shall the commonwealth pay costs, except where the party appealing is not a retailer of foreign merchandise, or has not produced any other testimony on the appeal than what was produced before the justice of the peace or alderman before whom the cause was originally tried. And provided further, Where the justice of the peace or alderman shall decide against the commonwealth, the costs of suit shall be paid out of the county treasury.

Section 3. That if any person or persons shall have more than one store, in which foreign merchandise is vended, such person or persons shall be required to take out a license for each and every store; and it shall be the duty of a constable to make return of every such store.

Section 4. That the treasurers shall make regular entries in a book to be kept by them for that purpose, of all monies received by them respectively, for licenses granted and duties paid, specifying the name or names of the parties, the several rates and amount of duties, and the year for which the said license hath issued, or the said duty has been paid, and charging themselves with the amount received on account of duties payable during the current year, as also for any preceding year; and that said treasurers shall once in every year, on or before the last day of December, render an account thereof under oath or affirmation, to the auditor general, for settlement by the accountant department, in the usual manner.

Section 5. That in all cases, when any person shall commence as a retailer of foreign merchandise, after the regular yearly period at which licenses are taken out, such person shall, on application, receive a license for the remainder of the year, and shall pay for the same in proportion to the time for which such licenses shall have been granted. Provided, That no person thus commencing for a fractional part of a year, shall be exonerated from paying the full amount for a license, who does not previous to, or within one month after such commencement, apply for, and take out a license, according to law.

Section 6. That it shall be the duty of the respective treasurers of the several cities and counties, within this commonwealth, annually, in the month of November, to publish, in two newspapers, in the several cities, and one in each county where a paper is published, a list of the names of all persons returned to him as retailers of foreign merchandise, designating those who have and those who have not taken out a license, within their respective cities and counties; and the respective treasurers shall transmit one of the newspapers, in which the names are so published, to the auditor general.

Section 7. That if any alderman, justice of the peace, constable or treasurer, shall neglect or refuse to perform the duties required of him by this act, or the act to which this is supplementary, such officer, so neglecting shall be considered guilty of a misdemeanor in office, and shall, on conviction of the same, before a competent tribunal, forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars, one half to the state and the other to the person or persons who shall prosecute such offender or offenders.

Section 8. That so much of the first section of the act to which this is supplement, as excepts from taxation every person who shall deal in the selling of any goods, wares or merchandise, wines or distilled liquors, where the same is sold in the original cask, case, box or package, is hereby repealed; and every such person or persons, shall be liable to the same amount of tax as retail merchants now are, and as fully as if they had not been excepted by the act to which this is a supplement.

Section 9. That so much of the act of the second of April, 1821, to which this is supplementary, as is inconsistent herewith, or contrary to this act, be and the same is hereby repealed. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be considered or construed to have the effect of discontinuing any indictment or proceedings heretofore instituted and pending in pursuance of any authority or provision of the said act of the 2d April, 1821; but the same shall be prosecuted to final judgment as though this act had not been passed.

Approved, March 4, 1824.

PITTSBURGH.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 2, 1824.

From the Washington Republican.

The resolutions proposing amendments to the Constitution in relation to the election of President and Vice President, were again called up in the Senate yesterday, by Mr. Hayne of South Carolina, with a view to make some disposition of the whole subject; and on the motion by Mr. Mills, to postpone it indefinitely, an animated and interesting debate arose, which involved the propriety and expediency of Congressional caucuses. The discussion arose from a remark made by Mr. King of New York, who, in addressing the senate, in favor of the motion, expressed his sentiments at some length against any modification of the Constitution, and particularly of that feature which gives the election of President to the House of Representatives, in the event of no choice being made by the electors. Mr. Dickerson, of New Jersey, followed in reply; and to some allusion made by him to the former opinions entertained on that subject by Mr. King, Mr. K. answered with some degree of warmth, that his sentiments had undergone a change—a change founded upon recent events and circumstances, which were so alarming as to compel him to adhere to the constitution with its present provisions and support it against a much greater power that had risen up, that was pregnant with incalculable mischief to the country. He asserted that a power had risen up which threatened to overwhelm the constitution —a central power which presumed to nominate a Chief Magistrate, and to take the election out of the hands of the people. He denied that the constitution indicated any power by which the great states should form combinations to select the man who should wear the American diadem, and considered the evil, one of such magnitude, that the people ought to view it with terror and alarm. These observations drew out several of the gentlemen who had attended the late caucus to justify the course of their proceeding, and to explain the views under which they had acted. They contended they convened only in their individual capacities—that they thought the measure highly necessary, on account of the situation of the country—that they were acting in the exercise of a right that was guaranteed both by the constitution and law—and that they were responsible for their conduct only to the people, their consciences, and their God.

The discussion of the subject was resumed to-day by Mr. Hayne, in reply to the arguments adduced by the gentlemen who spoke yesterday, that in attending the caucus, they went in their private capacities. He denied that any distinction could be drawn in the case between their public and their private capacity, and contended that it was the official garb with which members of Congress were clothed, which gave influence to their nomination, and produced the effect that it was intended to have. He denied that such nomination would produce union, and that it was agreeable to any of the provisions, or spirit of the constitution. We regret we have it not in our power to present the debate to our readers this evening, but we will do it so soon as practicable.

From the same, of March 22.

There has been to-day a considerable excitement in Senate, on the subject of the late minority Caucus. The venerable John Taylor of Caroline, who, previous to the Caucus, was represented, by the friends of that scheme, as favorable to it, has this morning put every doubt on that point to rest, by denouncing the Caucus in the most pointed and forcible manner. This republican patriarch denominated the Caucus—the Washington Ball Dance; and treated the distinction drawn by the advocates of the Caucus, between the private and official acts of the members of Congress, as puerile and inefficient.

Some forcible remarks, of a similar import, were made by Mr. Kelly of Alabama.

The resolutions on which this discussion was founded, being now indefinitely postponed, by a vote of 30 to 13, this debate will not be resumed.

From the Harrisburgh Chronicle.

The Constitutional Whig, of Richmond, in Virginia, treats its readers to some dry, but severe reflections upon Pennsylvania, when remarking upon the Harrisburgh Convention. Indeed the stand taken by this Convention has created astonishment every where—But to return to the Whig article—it is by no means wonderful that Pennsylvania, so long as she moved in the wake of Virginia, should have been praised for her democracy,—her steady, uniform democracy, that made her the key stone of the Union, and all that sort of thing:—and when she set up for herself, and acted independently, that she should hear the real opinion entertained of her citizens. Why, from this article it is very manifest, that Pennsylvania has been looked upon by Virginians as a good Conestoga wagon-horse, that was immensely serviceable in drawing the political machine at a pinch, but still requiring a Virginian driver.

The fact is Pennsylvania possesses as great men as does Virginia, and as many of them; but here it is the policy to keep such on the back ground—there to put them forward.

From the Richmond Constitutional Whig.

Harrisburgh Convention.—"Our columns of to day, furnish the result of the Harrisburgh Convention. The proceedings of that body have manifested a unanimity unexampled. Gen. Jackson received the whole of the votes as a suitable candidate for the Presidency, but that of Jonathan Roberts alone—and this circumstance at once constitutes him a most formal pretender to that high office.

"Of all the singular and unaccountable "signs of the times," the support of General JACKSON by Pennsylvania, is the most singular and unaccountable. More remarkable at all times for gravity of character than intellect, and for a passive acquiescence in the impulses of others, than a disposition to act upon her own suggestions; more ready to FOLLOW than to lead, Pennsylvania has given the world a specimen of degradation, and an eccentricity of sentiment, of which the GENERAL DULNESS and phlegm of her national character. We mean no disrespect to that great state; but we cannot, avoid thinking and saying, that this last demonstration the fact, that she is in the rear of the union in that sort of intelligence which qualifies man to appreciate and enjoy civil liberty. It belongs for the most part only to SAVAGES and the ILLITERATE VULGAR to be captivated by the glare of military renown; and those who are incapable of distinguishing between the description of talents which constitute the soldier and the statesman are alike incapable of forming just views of the proper fitness of things, and of proportioning the end to the means. That Pennsylvania, with one consent, has determined to support General Jackson as President of the United States, is proof sufficient that her citizens are republicans RATHER from being ACCIDENTALLY born in a republic, and from habit, than from theory and opinion."

Foreign.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

New-York, March 20.—By the arrival of the ship Elizabeth, from Havre, the editors of the Commercial Advertiser have received files of Paris papers to the 20th of February.

GREECE. The Augsburgh Gazette contains the following intelligence from Smyrna, dated January 9. "We have been for three weeks in the greatest alarm. The Greeks are masters of the Gulph, and most of the vessels have postponed their landings, because there is no longer security in the waters of the Archipelago. The intelligence of the loss of the fleet coming to the succour of Smyrna, has produced a deep impression upon the Turks, who regard this event as a chastisement of Heaven. Five frigates and six brigs stranded. The Greeks are filled with joy. If this news be found true, it will augment the courage of the Greeks, and render our position more dangerous." One account says the Greeks are said to have abandoned the projects against Smyrna; but this item seems to come by the way of Constantinople, and is not so late, by many days, as the Smyrna article.

A private letter from Odessa, of the 26th of January, says—"According to letters of the 13th inst. from Constantinople, the new Grand Vizier, Galib Saida-Effendi, has not yet entered upon his functions; it is said that he is very ill, and that little hope of his recovery is entertained. Some persons state that he has met with strong opposition in the Divan, on account of his mild and conciliatory disposition. The latter is by no means improbable. The Diplomatic body are dissatisfied with this turn of affairs. It is conjectured that his successor will be Hayad Bey, who was exiled by Haled Effendi, in 1821. We are assured that Lord Strangford has been authorized to continue his mediation between Russia and the Porte.

The Nuremberg Correspondent contains the following intelligence of the 6th ultimo from Corfu: "We have this moment received the agreeable intelligence that the landing which the Greeks effected in the Isle of Mytelene, has been attended with complete success. The Hellenists, to the number of seven or eight thousand men, have planted the standard of the cross in all directions, and compelled their barbarous adversaries to take refuge in some forts. It is probable that, ere long, the Turks will be under the necessity of totally evacuating the island. Other letters state that the Turkish garrison at Patras, being informed of the preparations making to surround that fortress, and take it by assault, thought proper to evacuate it and retire to Lepanto.

GREAT BRITAIN. The dates from London are two days later than before.—There is no news.

The "Globe" announces that the terms of the Greek loan lately contracted by Messrs. Loughnan, Son & O'Brien, have not yet been published. The respectability of this house, and the interest taken in the loan by one of the most considerable in the city, render it probable that the Greeks will receive great favor.

The French papers represent England as having great commercial advantages by refusing to intermeddle with the war, and stepping in fresh at the close, with an uninterrupted commerce, to the full and almost exclusive enjoyment of the South-American trade.

Ireland continued to be disturbed by Whiteboyism. Many outrages are detailed.

The Irish Miracles.—The Dublin Patriot, speaking of Prince Hohenlohe's Miracles, accounts for them from "the power of imagination;" and gives a curious recital of the surprising and almost ludicrous effects produced by the excitement of the imagination on a number of persons in the General Hospital at Bath, and in the Bristol Infirmary, in 1799, when the American quack, Dr. Perkins, was performing his miraculous cures, by his Patent Metallic Tractors, so scientifically formed of the precious metals, that upon being drawn over the parts affected by rheumatism, gout, and other chronic disorders, they gave instantaneous relief to the afflicted patients and caused many wonderful recoveries from the effects of these diseases.—In order to expose the humbug, Dr. Haygarth and Dr. Falconer, of Bath, caused fictitious Tractors to be made of wood, which were painted so as closely to imitate Perkins's Tractors, with which they experimented upon the patients in the Bath General Hospital, with precisely the same effects as those produced by the Metallic Tractors. Similar experiments were also tried in the Bristol Infirmary, by Mr. Richard Smith and Dr. Montcrieffe, the results of which clearly proved, to a degree which had never before been auspected, what a powerful influence on diseases is produced by mere imagination.

Sheriff's Sales.

BY virtue of sundry writs of Venditioni Exponas, issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, and to me directed, will be exposed to sale by public vendue or outcry, at the Court-House, in the City of Pittsburgh, on THURSDAY, the 15th day of April inst. at 10 o'clock, A. The said three described Lots or pieces of ground, under and subject to a yearly ground rent of $300. Seized and taken in execution as the property of the said Patrick Doran, at the suit of Christopher Steele.

Also,

All the right, title, interest and claim of Dennis S. Scully, of, in and to one half part of Lot No. 130, situate in the City of Pittsburgh, containing in front, on Liberty street, 30 feet, more or less; on which are a two story brick building and frame kitchen. ALSO, All the right, title, interest and claim of the said Dennis S. Scully, of, in and to a certain part of Lot No. 339, in Pittsburgh aforesaid, bounded and described, to wit: beginning on Fourth street, thence by part of the said Lot lately conveyed by Robert Graham to Philip Smith, northwardly, 60 feet, to the Jail Lot; thence by the Jail Lot westwardly 20 feet; thence southwardly, parallel with Jail alley, 60 feet, to Fourth street; and thence by Fourth street, eastwardly 20 feet to the beginning: subject to a ground rent, in connexion with the adjoining piece of ground, of $60 per annum.—ALSO, All the right, title, interest and claim of Richard Geary, of, in and to one fourth part of Lot No. 114, in the City of Pittsburgh, beginning on Liberty street, at the corner of Lot No. 113, and running southwardly with said street, thirty feet; thence towards Penn street about 112 feet to a 15 foot alley; thence by the said alley to Lot No. 113, thirty feet; and thence by the line of the said Lot to the place of beginning: on which are erected two dwelling houses of brick; subject to a yearly ground rent of $90, to which the premises are subject in connexion with another 4th part of said Lot. ALSO, All the right, title, interest and claim of the said Richard Geary, of, in and to a part of Lot 343, in Pittsburgh, beginning on Fourth street, at the distance of eighty feet from Market street, and fronting on Fourth street aforesaid, 20 feet; and running back parallel with Market street 54 feet, to Earl's alley; on which is erected a three story brick house; subject to a yearly ground rent of $100, with a deduction of $30 per annum upon the performance of certain articles of agreement, made with Thomas Williams, the lessor of the said premises. Seized and taken in execution as the property of the said D. S. Scully and R. Geary, at the suit of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Also,

All the right, title, interest and claim of Jacob Negley, of, in and to fourteen and a half acres of Land, more or less, situate in Pitt township, about two miles from Pittsburgh, adjoining lands of Margaret Duncan, Jonas Roup, James O'Hara's heirs, and other lands late of Jacob Negley. ALSO, All the right, title, interest and claim of the said Jacob Negley, of, in and to a Tract of Land, in Pitt township aforesaid, called "Health's Delight," containing 440 acres, more or less, on which are erected a large brick Dwelling House, Barn, and other extensive improvements, (excluding the lots of East Liberty,) bounded by lands of Casper Negley, Patrick Joyce, John Gibener, and others, and on which there are about 300 acres cleared. Seized and taken in execution as the property of the said Jacob Negley, at the suit of Conrad Winebiddle.

Also,

All the estate, right, title, interest and claim of Peter Schaeffer, of, in and to a certain Lot or piece of ground, marked in O'Hara's Extension of Pittsburgh No. 40; bounded by Lot No. 30, by New-Market or Second Street, by Lot No. 31 and by Lot No. 38; containing in front 24 feet, and running back to No. 35, 65 feet; on which is erected a two story frame house. SHERIFF'S OFFICE, Pittsburgh, April 2, 1824. 2t

Jackson Tonsorial Head-Quarters REMOVED!!

THE Republican Family are very respectfully informed, that the head quarters are permanently fixed in Wood street, one door south of the Sign of Innocence, or the Golden Lamb, and one door north of that late and celebrated Livery Establishment, formerly managed by that conspicuous Farrier, Sergeant Geer, late of the Northern Army of the U. S.

The Jackson Tonsorial Hall, has undergone a thorough repair, which renders it in every respect superior to any establishment of the kind in the western country. His gallery of pictures is suitably arranged, to entertain his friends, external and internal emblems will always be displayed, indicative of the honorable profession of Shaving and Cutting Hair, in all its various branches.

Mr. Pratt particularly begs to be remembered to his friends of the Diamond, who have on so many occasions fearlessly put themselves under his Razorical tuition.—But the unfortunate situation of his late residence, rendered a removal indispensible, as little room enough was left in the court end of the city, for the dispensation of the many beauties of Blackstone, and the operation of the valuable effusions naturally growing out of Materia Medica, and the increasing calls to Arbitrate.

He sincerely hopes for a continuance of friendly visits from his south-western friends, as formerly, that he may reciprocate with them on all matters, either of a tonsorial or local political nature, as circumstances may suggest. The present stand is particularly calculated to interest all, and accommodate, in every point of view, the weary traveller and the busy citizen, being in full view of the Mail Coach, and Golden Cross Keys.

He invites the citizens to observe, that he will take from 40 to 50 gentlemen by the quarter, at reduced prices, who shall enjoy all the excellence of [illegible] razor and sharp scissors—the hair, [illegible] where they shave by the quarter, cut gratis.

With due deference to his brother strops of christian hue, he still continues to set razors, in his usual style, giving them that fine cross edge, a manner of setting razors, the best and surest, bringing them to that keenness which "beggars description."

Arrangements have been made with Messrs. Crosswaite & Hancock, for a splendid assortment of comic and tragic caricatures, of the first water—on their arrival the public will be duly apprised.

From a knowledge of the Art and Mystery, the ne plus ultra Magnum Bonum which he possesses, in shaving and the trimming of hair, acquired by a series of years, he hopes to reap a reasonable share of the public patronage.

Reference may be had, as to his qualifications in the mysteries of the above art, to the Jackson bullet-proof Hat-Factory, and to the members of Magistrates' Row, in the Diamond, where Law is dispensed and Justice flows like milk and honey, who will be ever ready to give information to those who lack knowledge as to his removal, &c.

☞ AN APPRENTICE to the above business, will be taken, if he answers the following description: good moral character, 4 feet 11 or 12 inches high, not too corpulent, mild, but sprightly, a hater of garlic, clean fingered, from 12 to 14 years of age. A boy of this description will meet with comfortable quarters, and good usage. None other need apply.

E F Pratt,
Hair Dresser.

PHILLIPS & SHEPARD,

HAVE associated with them in business, Mr. Gilbert Adams and have made arrangements to conduct the business in future at their old stand on Market street, under the firm of Phillips, Adams, & co.

And hope to be able to render general satisfaction to those who may confide business to their care.

Maysville, March 24. [April 2—3t]

WILLIAM M'KNIGHT

HAS REMOVED his Store next door to the corner of Fourth and Market Street, which adjoins the store he formerly occupied,

WHERE HE HAS JUST RECEIVED,

PITTSBURGH.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 2, 1824.

From the Washington Republican.

The resolutions proposing amendments to the Constitution in relation to the election of President and Vice President, were again called up in the Senate yesterday, by Mr. Hayne of South Carolina, with a view to make some disposition of the whole subject; and on the motion by Mr. Mills, to postpone it indefinitely, an animated and interesting debate arose, which involved the propriety and expediency of Congressional caucuses. The discussion arose from a remark made by Mr. King of New York, who, in addressing the senate, in favor of the motion, expressed his sentiments at some length against any modification of the Constitution, and particularly of that feature which gives the election of President to the House of Representatives, in the event of no choice being made by the electors. Mr. Dickerson, of New Jersey, followed in reply; and to some allusion made by him to the former opinions entertained on that subject by Mr. King, Mr. K. answered with some degree of warmth, that his sentiments had undergone a change—a change founded upon recent events and circumstances, which were so alarming as to compel him to adhere to the constitution with its present provisions and support it against a much greater power that had risen up, that was pregnant with incalculable mischief to the country. He asserted that a power had risen up which threatened to overwhelm the constitution—a central power which presumed to nominate a Chief Magistrate, and to take the election out of the hands of the people. He denied that the constitution indicated any power by which the great states should form combinations to select the man who should wear the American diadem, and considered the evil, one of such magnitude, that the people ought to view it with terror and alarm. These observations drew out several of the gentlemen who had attended the late caucus to justify the course of their proceeding, and to explain the views under which they had acted. They contended they convened only in their individual capacities—that they thought the measure highly necessary, on account of the situation of the country—that they were acting in the exercise of a right that was guaranteed both by the constitution and law—and that they were responsible for their conduct only to the people, their consciences, and their God.

The discussion of the subject was resumed to-day by Mr. Hayne, in reply to the arguments adduced by the gentlemen who spoke yesterday, that in attending the caucus, they went in their private capacities. He denied that any distinction could be drawn in the case between their public and their private capacity, and contended that it was the official garb with which members of Congress were clothed, which gave influence to their nomination, and produced the effect that it was intended to have. He denied that such nomination would produce union, and that it was agreeable to any of the provisions, or spirit of the constitution. We regret we have it not in our power to present the debate to our readers this evening, but we will do it so soon as practicable.

From the same, of March 22.

There has been to-day a considerable excitement in Senate, on the subject of the late minority Caucus. The venerable John Taylor of Caroline, who, previous to the Caucus, was represented, by the friends of that scheme, as favorable to it, has this morning put every doubt on that point to rest, by denouncing the Caucus in the most pointed and forcible manner. This republican patriarch denominated the Caucus—the Washington Bull Dance; and treated the distinction drawn by the advocates of the Caucus, between the private and official acts of the members of Congress, as puerile and inefficient.

Some forcible remarks, of a similar import, were made by Mr. Kelly of Alabama.

The resolutions on which this discussion was founded, being now indefinitely postponed, by a vote of 30 to 13, this debate will not be resumed.

From the Harrisburgh Chronicle.

The Constitutional Whig, of Richmond, in Virginia, treats its readers to some dry, but severe reflections upon Pennsylvania, when remarking upon the Harrisbugh Convention. Indeed the stand taken by this Convention has created astonishment every where—But to return to the Whig article—it is by no means wonderful that Pennsylvania, so long as she moved in the wake of Virginia, should have been praised for her democracy,—her steady, uniform democracy, that made her the key stone of the Union, and all that sort of thing:—and when she set up for herself, and acted independently, that she should hear the real opinion entertained of her citizens. Why, from this article it is very manifest, that Pennsylvania has been looked upon by Virginians as a good Conestoga wagon-horse, that was immensely serviceable in drawing the political machine at a pinch, but still requiring a Virginian driver.

The fact is Pennsylvania possesses as great men as does Virginia, and as many of them; but here it is the policy to keep such on the back ground—there to put them forward.

From the Richmond Constitutional Whig.

Harrisburgh Convention.—"Our columns of to day, furnish the result of the Harrisburgh Convention. The proceedings of that body have manifested a unanimity unexampled. Gen. Jackson received the whole of the votes as a suitable candidate for the Presidency, but that of Jonathan Roberts alone—and this circumstance at once constitutes him a most formal pretender to that high office.

"Of all the singular and unaccountable "signs of the times," the support of General JACKSON by Pennsylvania, is the most singular and unaccountable. More remarkable at all times for gravity of character than intellect, and for a passive acquiescence in the impulses of others, than a disposition to act upon her own suggestions; more ready to FOLLOW than to LEAD, Pennsylvania has upon this occasion discovered a frivolity of disposition, and an eccentricity of sentiment, at war with the GENERAL DULNESS and phlegm of her national character. We mean no disrespect to that great state; but we cannot avoid thinking and saying, that this act demonstrates the fact, that she is in the rear of the union in that sort of intelligence which qualifies man to appreciate and enjoy civil liberty. It belongs for the most part only to SAVAGES and the ILLITERATE VULGAR to be captivated by the glare of military renown; and those who are incapable of distinguishing between the description of talents which constitute the soldier and the statesman are alike incapable of forming just views of the proper fitness of things, and of proportioning the end to the means. That Pennsylvania, with one consent, has determined to support General Jackson as President of the United States, is proof sufficient that her citizens are republicans RATHER from being ACCIDENTALLY born in a republic, and from habit, than from theory and opinion."

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

New-York, March 20.—By the arrival of the ship Elizabeth, from Havre, the editors of the Commercial Advertiser have received files of Paris papers to the 20th of February.

GREECE. The Augsburgh Gazette contains the following intelligence from Smyrna, dated January 9. "We have been for three weeks in the greatest alarm. The Greeks are masters of the Gulph, and most of the vessels have postponed their landings, because there is no longer security in the waters of the Archipelago. The intelligence of the loss of the fleet coming to the succour of Smyrna, has produced a deep impression upon the Turks, who regard this event as a chastisement of Heaven. Five frigates and six brigs stranded. The Greeks are filled with joy. If this news be found true, it will augment the courage of the Greeks, and render our position more dangerous." One account says the Greeks are said to have abandoned the projects against Smyrna; but this item seems to come by the way of Constantinople, and is not so late, by many days, as the Smyrna article.

A private letter from Odessa, of the 26th of January, says—"According to letters of the 13th inst. from Constantinople, the new Grand Vizier, Galib Saida-Effendi, has not yet entered upon his functions; it is said that he is very ill, and that little hope of his recovery is entertained. Some persons state that he has met with strong opposition in the Divan, on account of his mild and conciliatory disposition. The latter is by no means improbable. The Diplomatic body are dissatisfied with this turn of affairs. It is conjectured that his successor will be Hayad Bey, who was exiled by Haled Effendi, in 1821. We are assured that Lord Strangford has been authorized to continue his mediation between Russia and the Porte.

The Nuremberg Correspondent contains the following intelligence of the 6th ultimo from Corfu: "We have this moment received the agreeable intelligence that the landing which the Greeks effected in the Isle of Mytelene, has been attended with complete success. The Hellenists, to the number of seven or eight thousand men, have planted the standard of the cross in all directions, and compelled their barbarous adversaries to take refuge in some forts. It is probable that, ere long, the Turks will be under the necessity of totally evacuating the island. Other letters state that the Turkish garrison at Patras, being informed of the preparations making to surround that fortress, and take it by assault, thought proper to evacuate it and retire to Lepanto.

GREAT BRITAIN. The dates from London are two days later than before.—There is no news.

The "Globe" announces that the terms of the Greek loan lately contracted by Messrs. Loughnan, Son & O'Brien, have not yet been published. The respectability of this house, and the interest taken in the loan by one of the most considerable in the city, render it probable that the Greeks will receive great favor.

The French papers represent England as having great commercial advantages by refusing to intermeddle with the war, and stepping in fresh at the close, with an uninterrupted commerce, to the full and almost exclusive enjoyment of the South-American trade.

Ireland continued to be disturbed by Whiteboyism. Many outrages are detailed.

The Irish Miracles.—The Dublin Patriot, speaking of Prince Hohenlohe's Miracles, accounts for them from "the power of imagination;" and gives a curious recital of the surprising and almost ludicrous effects produced by the excitement of the imagination on a number of persons in the General Hospital at Bath, and in the Bristol Infirmary, in 1799, when the American quack, Dr. Perkins, was performing his miraculous cures, by his Patent Metallic Tractors, so scientifically formed of the precious metals, that upon being drawn over the parts affected by rheumatism, gout, and other chronic disorders, they gave instantaneous relief to the afflicted patients and caused many wonderful recoveries from the effects of these diseases.—In order to expose the humbug, Dr. Haygarth and Dr. Falconer, of Bath, caused fictitious Tractors to be made of wood, which were painted so as closely to imitate Perkins's Tractors, with which they experimented upon the patients in the Bath General Hospital, with precisely the same effects as those produced by the Metallic Tractors. Similar experiments were also tried in the Bristol Infirmary, by Mr. Richard Smith and Dr. Montcrieffe, the results of which clearly proved, to a degree which had never before been suspected, what a powerful influence on diseases is produced by mere imagination.

Sheriff's Sales.

L. Stewart, Sheriff.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE, Pittsburgh, April 2, 1824. } 2t

Jackson Tonsorial Head-Quarters

THE Republican Family are very respectfully informed, that the head quarters are permanently fixed in Wood street, one door south of the Sign of Innocence, or the Golden Lamb, and one door north of that late and celebrated Livery Establishment, formerly managed by that conspicuous Farrier, Sergeant Geer, late of the Northern Army of the U. S.

The Jackson Tonsorial Hall, has undergone a thorough repair, which renders it in every respect superior to any establishment of the kind in the western country. His gallery of pictures is suitably arranged, to entertain his friends, external and internal emblems will always be displayed, indicative of the honorable profession of Shaving and Cutting Hair, in all its various branches.

Mr. Pratt particularly begs to be remembered to his friends of the Diamond, who have on so many occasions fearlessly put themselves under his Razorical tuition.—But the unfortunate situation of his late residence, rendered a removal indispensible, as little room enough was left in the court end of the city, for the dispensation of the many beauties of Blackstone, and the operation of the valuable effusions naturally growing out of Materia Medica, and the increasing calls to Arbitrate.

He sincerely hopes for a continuance of friendly visits from his south-western friends, as formerly, that he may reciprocate with them on all matters, either of a tonsorial or local political nature, as circumstances may suggest. The present stand is particularly calculated to interest all, and accommodate, in every point of view, the weary traveller and the busy citizen, being in full view of the Mail Coach, and Golden Cross Keys.

He invites the citizens to observe, that he will take from 40 to 50 gentlemen by the quarter, at reduced prices, who shall enjoy all the excellence of a keen razor and sharp scissors—the hair, [illegible] where they shave by the quarter, cut gratis.

With due deference to his brother strops of christian hue, he still continues to set razors, in his usual style, giving them that fine cross edge, a manner of setting razors, the best and surest, bringing them to that keenness which "beggars description."

Arrangements have been made with Messrs. Crosswaite & Hancock, for a splendid assortment of comic and tragic caricatures, of the first water—on their arrival the public will be duly apprised.

From a knowledge of the Art and Mystery, the ne plus ultra Magnum Bonum which he possesses, in shaving and the trimming of hair, acquired by a series of years, he hopes to reap a reasonable share of the public patronage.

Reference may be had, as to his qualifications in the mysteries of the above art, to the Jackson bullet proof Hat-Factory, and to the members of Magistrates' Row, in the Diamond, where Law is dispensed and Justice flows like milk and honey, who will be ever ready to give information to those who lack knowledge as to his removal, &c.

☞ AN APPRENTICE to the above business, will be taken, if he answers the following description: good moral character, 4 feet 11 or 12 inches high, not too corpulent, mild, but sprightly, a hater of garlic, clean fingered, from 12 to 14 years of age. A boy of this description will meet with comfortable quarters, and good usage. None other need apply.

E F Pratt,
Hair Dresser.

Done at the J. T. H. in Wood street, the 27th day of March, A. D 1824, and year of the Ars 5824.

PHILLIPS & SHEPARD,

HAVE associated with them in business, Mr. Gilbert Adams and have made arrangements to conduct the business in future at their old stand on Market street, under the firm of Phillips, Adams, & co.

And hope to be able to render general satisfaction to those who may confide business to their care.

Maysville, March 24. [April 2—3t]

GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1824.

☞ The Rev. Mr. Hopkins, will preach a sermon in the First Presbyterian Church, on the evening of Sunday the 4th of April, at which time a collection will be taken up for the benefit of the Female Bible Society.

The legislature was to adjourn on Wednesday last, without day.

The Bank Bill, the General School Bill, and the Bill to regulate the Practice of Physic and Surgery, have become laws. We copy from the Chronicle a list of titles of some of the other bills passed. Three of the new laws of a public nature, are inserted entire.

CONGRESS.—The debate on the Tariff was continued on the 23d ult. A motion to strike out "two cents per pound," as the duty on Hemp, and insert "one and a half cents," produced a long discussion, in which Messrs. Reed, Webster, Mercer, P. P. Barbour, Foote and Cambreleng advocated—and Messrs. Benton, Tod and Clay opposed the motion, which was finally negatived, 69 voting for, and 107 against it.

The enemies of the Tariff are now urging the immediate adjournment of Congress. Mr. Randolph is anxious to get clear of the "pestilential atmosphere" of this house; and has proposed to reduce the members' daily pay to 6 dollars. We have seen a letter from a member of Congress, which says that body is expected to adjourn on the 15th of May.

The Census, it will be seen, has been the subject of debate in Senate, and been roughly handled.

The U. S. Supreme Court closed its session, at Washington City, on the 23d ult. During this term, the long pending case of the United States vs. Kirkpatrick and Gibney, motion for Reed, was argued by Messrs. Alexander and Foster, for the defendants, and Mr. Wirt for the plaintiffs in error. In this case "The Court is satisfied, that there is an error in that part of the decree of the District Court of the Western District of Pennsylvania, which authorises the jury to find a verdict for the defendants, if they are satisfied that the agents of the government have been guilty of bribery, this court being of opinion that no such bribery can, in point of law, be a waiver or discharge of the security taken by the bond in the record. Case remanded to the District Court, with directions to award a venire facias de novo, and to permit the parties to amend and complete their pleadings."

A respectable eastern editor gives the Pittsburgh Gazette as authority for the assertion, that great dissatisfaction is manifested in this place at the nomination of Mr. Calhoun for the Vice-Presidency. We deny having given any such information. Except among the twenty or fifteen persons who constitute the caucus party in this city, we do not know that any dissatisfaction exists on the subject.—They are, no doubt, "greatly dissatisfied."

Mr. Clay, it is asserted in the Lexington papers, is becoming every day more formidable, as a candidate for the Presidency. Letters in the New York papers insist upon it that he is about to withdraw his name from the list of candidates; and this supposition is corroborated by the following paragraph from the Morning Post, printed at Louisville, Kentucky, a paper, which, if we mistake not, has hitherto supported the pretensions of Mr. Clay.

"A letter received in town from Washington City, dated March 8, states, that it is confidently asserted at Washington, that Mr. Clay will decline the Presidential contest, and that Mr. Calhoun had already expressed his determination to be no longer considered as a candidate for that office; it is also stated that either Mr. Clay or Mr. Talbot of Kentucky, will be appointed Attorney General of the United States in the place of William Wirt, Esq. who intends resigning."

A Convention is talked of in New-York, to form an Electoral ticket to be supported by the Legislature. This is as it should be. Legislators frequently form tickets for the people,—it is no more than just that the people should reciprocate the favor.

It is asserted that but one paper in Ohio advocates the entire nomination. There have been several late public meetings in that state, at which Jackson was nominated.

There is not one paper in Kentucky favorable to the caucus. Two very popular men in their districts are candidates for the office of Presidential Electors, and are pledged to vote for Jackson.

A large meeting in Baltimore has nominated Jackson.

Late meetings in favor of Jackson have been held in Virginia and North Carolina.

Effect of the New-York Canal.—Wheat commands here ready sale at 75 cents, and at Erie, we are told, one dollar, cash, per bushel. Farmers, let this awaken you to industry and good husbandry. Prepare for heavy spring crops. You will henceforth have a steady—a certain and we are equally sure, a good market, for every thing you may have to spare.

Meadville Messenger.

SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS.

The President of the United States has proclaimed that the lands which have been relinquished or forfeited to the United States, together with the sections and parts of sections heretofore reserved from sale, shall be offered at public sale as follows:

At the land-office in Chillicothe on the second Monday in April inst.

At the land-office in Marietta on the first Monday in May next.

At the land-office in Steubenville on the third Monday of the same month.

At the land-office in Wooster on the fourth Monday in the same month.

[Wooster Spectator.

Missouri Tobacco.—Thirty eight hogsheads of Missouri Tobacco, with the stamp of "Bingham & Lamb, Boon's-Lick, Missouri," were sold in the city of New-York, some time in January, at the highest price, being pronounced superior to any other description of Tobacco in the market.—Missouri Tobacco always bears the highest price in New-Orleans, and has frequently had the preference in Philadelphia and Baltimore. What will they say when they see our Hemp? We would not be surprised to hear them exclaim that Russia had been practising an imposition on the world, when they come to examine the hemp of Missouri.

St. Louis Inquirer.

Wood Screws.—It is with pleasure we mention, that the wood screw manufactory of Messrs. Philips & Co. is now in complete operation, at Philipsburgh, in Centre county, Pa. and in all probability will be able to supply almost the whole United States with that useful article, with which we have hitherto been supplied from England. This is the only manufactory of the kind in the Union, and superior to any in England, nay, in the world! A specimen of those screws have been handed us, and we hesitate not to say they are superior to those imported, and we are informed they will be sold cheaper. America can now manufacture a hob nail.

Law of Pennsylvania.

An act to enable executors, administrators, guardians and other trustees to invest their trust moneys.

Section 1. That in any case in which an executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, now has, or hereafter shall have in his hands, any money, the principal or capital whereof is to remain for a time in his possession or under his control, and the interests, profits or income thereof, only is to be paid away, or to accumulate, it shall and may be lawful for such executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee, to present his petition to the orphans' court of the proper county, stating the circumstances of the case, and the amount or sum of moneys which he is desirous of investing: Whereupon it shall be lawful for the said court, upon hearing and due proof of the circumstances, to make an order directing the investment of the said money in the stocks or debts of the United States, or in the debt of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or in the debt of the city of Philadelphia, or in real securities at such prices, or on such rates of interest and terms of payment respectively, as the said court shall think fit; and in case the said money shall be invested in conformity to such direction, the said executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be exempted from all liability for loss on the same, in like manner as if the said investment had been made in conformity with a similar direction in the wills or instruments creating the said trusts, or by a law of this state: Provided always, that nothing herein contained, shall be construed to authorize the said court, to make a direction, contrary to the direction contained in any last will or other instrument, in regard to the investment of such money.

Section 2. That so much of an act of assembly passed the twenty-seventh day of March, one thousand eight hundred and thirteen, entitled, "An act for establishing orphans' courts," as is contrary hereto or supplied hereby, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Approved, February 18, 1824.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.

New-York, March 22.

The regular packet ship Cortes, Capt. De Cost, has just arrived from Liverpool, which she left on the 25th of February.—By this conveyance we have received our regular files of the London Courier, Times, Morning Chronicle, and British Press, to the evening of the 22d, and Liverpool papers of the 25th of February.

WAR WITH ALGIERS.

The London Gazette, of February 21, contains the following annunciation of hostilities having commenced against the regency of Algiers, by the British fleet stationed off that port. The causes of this warlike declaration are said to be twofold; one, the refusal on the part of the Dey to make reparation for an insult offered to the British consular flag; the other, a declaration that he was no longer to observe the terms of a treaty made with him not to retain any christian captives of any nation in a state of slavery:

Admiralty Office, Feb. 21, 1824.

Despatches, dated the 31st of last month and 1st inst. have this morning been received at this office from the honorable Captain Spencer, of his majesty's ship Naiad, who had been directed to proceed to Algiers to make, in conjunction with his majesty's consul at that regency, a remonstrance against some late proceedings of the Dey, stating that his negotiation had ended unsatisfactorily, and that the consul was obliged to strike the British flag, and embark on board his majesty's ship.

Captain Spencer further reports, that having met an Algerine corvette, he felt it, under his instructions, his duty to attack her, and that she was laid on board, and captured in the most handsome manner, by his majesty's brig Cameleon, when Captain Spencer had the satisfaction to find that he had rescued seventeen Spaniards, whom the Algerine was carrying into slavery.

Admiralty Office, Feb. 21, 1824.

This is to give notice, that the lords commissioners of the admiralty will immediately appoint convoys to afford protection to the trade through the Straits of Gibraltar, and within the Mediterranean, until the differences with the regency of Algiers shall be arranged.

J. W. CROKER.

The King of France had transmitted a complimentary letter to the Swiss cantons in reply to their congratulation on his conquest of Spain; and still further to show their subserviency to the views of the holy alliance, a new ordinance had been published at Geneva, subjecting foreigners to personal appearance before the police on their arrival, and at the alien office, if their residence should exceed three weeks, under the penalties of fine and imprisonment for non-conformance.

Information had been received in London that the Hon. Leicester Stanhope, who had been for some time attempting to form a corps of artillery in Greece, had succeeded to the utmost extent of his wishes, and boasted that the Greeks had now a force more than sufficient to subdue all the fortresses in the hands of the Turks. Lord Byron continued to be the soul of the Greek cause, and was so popular that the primates of Missolunghi had elected him a member of their council. His lordship sold an estate for the purpose of providing for the expenditure of the war, until the produce of the loan should have been received from London, which, with the subscriptions raised there and in other places, were anxiously looked for. The London Courier, of the 21st of February, contains Mr. Webster's speech on the Greek question, at full length.

The excavations had commenced in the river Thames for the intended new London bridge.

DRAWING

UNION CANAL LOTTERY,

Ninth Class—New Series.

THE Subscribers, Commissioners appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to superintend the drawing of the Union Canal Lottery, Ninth Class, New Series, do hereby certify that the following were the numbers which were this day drawn, viz.

6, 19, 21, 3,

and that the said numbers were drawn in the order in which they stand above; that is to say, No. 6 was the first that was drawn; No. 19 was the second, No. 21 was the third, and No. 3 was the fourth.

Witness our hands, at the city of Philadelphia, this 25th day of March, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-four.

THOMAS LEIPER,
ANDREW BAYARD,
ANDREW PETTIT.

Attest—JOHN ROBERTS, Secretary.

From the preceding certificate, it will be seen what numbers were drawn from the wheel, for determining the prizes in the Union Canal Lottery, Ninth Class, New Series, with the order in which they were drawn—and the Manager has the honor to announce to the public the following as the result.

The ticket which drew the prize of $2080 is that having on it the three first drawn Nos. in the order in which they were drawn, viz. 6, 19, 21.

The five tickets which drew prizes of $1000 each, are those having on them the same Nos. in the other orders of combination and permutation, viz.

6 21 19
19 21 6
19 6 21
21 6 19
21 19 6
} each $1000.

The six tickets which drew prizes of $200 each, are those having on them the 1st, 2d and 4th drawn Nos. in the various orders of combination and permutation, viz.

6 19 3
6 3 19
19 6 3
19 3 6
3 19 6
3 6 19
} each $200.

The 12 tickets which drew prizes of $100 each, are those having on them the 1st, 3d and 4th, or the 2d, 3d and 4th drawn Nos. in the various orders of combination and permutation, viz.

6 21 3
6 3 21
21 6 3
21 3 6
3 6 21
3 21 6
19 21 3
19 3 21
19 21 3
21 3 19
3 21 19
3 19 21
} each $100.

The 612 tickets which drew prizes of $10 each are those having on them any two of the drawn Nos.

And the 3264 tickets which drew prizes of $5 each, are all such as have any one of the drawn Nos. on.

A. M'Intyre,

Manager.

GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1824.

☞ The Rev. Mr. Hopkins, will preach a sermon in the First Presbyterian Church, on the evening of Sunday the 4th of April, at which time a collection will be taken up for the benefit of the Female Bible Society.

The legislature was to adjourn on Wednesday last, without day.

The Bank Bill, the General School Bill, and the Bill to regulate the Practice of Physic and Surgery, have become laws. We copy from the Chronicle a list of titles of some of the other acts passed. Three of the new laws, of a public nature, are inserted entire.

CONGRESS.—The debate on the Tariff was continued on the 23d ult. A motion to strike out "two cents per pound," as the duty on Hemp, and insert "one and a half cents," produced a long discussion, in which Messrs. Read, Webster, Mercer, P. P. Barbour, Foote and Cambreleng advocated—and Messrs. Buchanan, Tod and Clay opposed the motion, which was finally negatived, 69 voting for, and 107 against it.

The enemies of the Tariff are now urging the immediate adjournment of Congress. Mr. Randolph is anxious to get clear of the "pestilential atmosphere" of the house; and has proposed to reduce the members' daily pay to 6 dollars. We have seen a letter from a member of Congress, which says that body is expected to adjourn on the 15th of May.

The Cassus, it will be seen, has been the subject of debate in Senate, and been roughly handled.

The U. S. Supreme Court closed its session, at Washington City, on the 23d ult. During this term, the long pending case of the United States vs. Kirkpatrick and Ramsey, sureties for Reed, was argued by Messrs. Alexander and Foster, for the defendents, and Mr. Wirt for the plaintiffs in error. In this case "The Court adjudged, that there is an error in that part of the charge of the District Court of the Western District of Pennsylvania, which authorizes the jury to find a verdict for the defendants, if they are satisfied that the agents of the government have been guilty of laches, this court being of opinion that no such laches are, in point of law, a waiver or discharge of the security taken by the bond in the record. Case remanded to the District Court, with directions to award a venire facias de novo, and to permit the parties to amend and complete their pleadings."

A respectable eastern editor gives the Pittsburgh Gazette as authority for the assertion, that great dissatisfaction is manifested in this place at the nomination of Mr. Calhoun for the Vice-Presidency. We deny having given any such information. Except among the twelve or fifteen persons who constitute the caucus party in this city, we do not know that any dissatisfaction exists on the subject.—They are, no doubt, "greatly dissatisfied."

Mr. Clay, it is asserted in the Lexington papers, is becomnig every day more formidable, as a candidate for the Presidency. Letters in the New York papers insist upon it that he is about to withdraw his name from the list of candidates; and this supposition is corroborated by the following paragraph from the Morning Post, printed at Louisville, Kentucky, a paper, which, if we mistake not, has hitherto supported the pretensions of Mr. Clay.

"A letter received in town from Washington City, dated March 8, states, that it is confidently asserted at Washington, that Mr. Clay will decline the Presidential contest, and that Mr. Calhoun had already expressed his determination to be no longer considered as a candidate for that office; it is also stated that either Mr. Clay or Mr. Talbot of Kentucky, will be appointed Attorney General of the United States in the place of William Wirt, Esq. who intends resigning."

A Convention is talked of in New-York, to form an Electoral ticket to be supported by the Legislature. This is as it should be. Legislators frequently form tickets for the people,—it is no more than just that the people should reciprocate the favor.

It is asserted that but one paper in Ohio advocates the caucus nomination. There have been several late public meetings in that state, at which Jackson was nominated.

There is not one paper in Kentucky favorable to the caucus. Two very popular men in their districts are candidates for the office of Presidential Electors, and are pledged to vote for Jackson.

A large meeting in Baltimore has nominated Jackson.

Late meetings in favor of Jackson have been held in Virginia and North Carolina.

Effect of the New-York Canal.—Wheat commands here ready sale at 75 cents, and at Erie, we are told, one dollar, cash, per bushel. Farmers, let this awaken you to industry and good husbandry. Prepare for heavy spring crops. You will henceforth have a steady—a certain and we are equally sure, a good market, for every thing you may have to spare.

Meadville Messenger.

SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS.

The President of the United States has proclaimed that the lands which have been relinquished or forfeited to the United States, together with the sections and parts of sections heretofore reserved from sale, shall be offered at public sale as follows:

At the land-office in Chillicothe on the second Monday in April inst.

At the land-office in Marietta on the first Monday in May next.

At the land-office in Steubenville on the third Monday of the same month.

At the land-office in Wooster on the fourth Monday in the same month.

[Wooster Spectator.

Missouri Tobacco.—Thirty eight hogsheads of Missouri Tobacco, with the stamp of "Bingham & Lamb, Boon's-Lick, Missouri," were sold in the city of New-York, some time in January, at the highest price, being pronounced superior to any other description of Tobacco in the market.—Missouri Tobacco always bears the highest price in New-Orleans, and has frequently had the preference in Philadelphia and Baltimore. What will they say when they see our Hemp? We would not be surprised to hear them exclaim that Russia had been practising an imposition on the world, when they come to examine the hemp of Missouri.

St. Louis Inquirer.

Wood Screws.—It is with pleasure we mention, that the wood screw manufactory of Messrs. Philips & Co. is now in complete operation, at Philipsburgh, in Centre county, Pa. and in all probability will be able to supply almost the whole United States with that useful article, with which we have hitherto been supplied from England. This is the only manufactory of the kind in the Union, and superior to any in England, nay, in the world! A specimen of those screws have been handed us, and we hesitate not to say they are superior to those imported, and we are informed they will be sold cheaper. America can now manufacture a hob nail.

Law of Pennsylvania.

An act to enable executors, administrators, guardians and other trustees to invest their trust moneys.

Section 1. That in any case in which an executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, now has, or hereafter shall have in his hands, any money, the principal or capital whereof is to remain for a time in his possession or under his control, and the interests, profits or income thereof, only is to be paid away, or to accumulate, it shall and may be lawful for such executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee, to present his petition to the orphans' court of the proper county, stating the circumstances of the case, and the amount or sum of moneys which he is desirous of investing: Whereupon it shall be lawful for the said court, upon hearing and due proof of the circumstances, to make an order directing the investment of the said money in the stocks or debts of the United States, or in the debt of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or in the debt of the city of Philadelphia, or in real securities at such prices, or on such rates of interest and terms of payment respectively, as the said court shall think fit; and in case the said money shall be invested in conformity to such direction, the said executor, administrator, guardian or trustee shall be exempted from all liability for loss on the same, in like manner as if the said investment had been made in conformity with a similar direction in the wills or instruments creating the said trusts, or by a law of this state: Provided always, that nothing herein contained, shall be construed to authorize the said court, to make a direction, contrary to the direction contained in any last will or other instrument, in regard to the investment of such money.

Section 2. That so much of an act of assembly passed the twenty-seventh day of March, one thousand eight hundred and thirteen, entitled, "An act for establishing orphans' courts," as is contrary hereto or supplied hereby, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.

New-York, March 22.

The regular packet ship Cortes, Capt. De Cost, has just arrived from Liverpool, which she left on the 25th of February.—By this conveyance we have received our regular files of the London Courier, Times, Morning Chronicle, and British Press, to the evening of the 22d, and Liverpool papers of the 25th of February.

WAR WITH ALGIERS.

The London Gazette, of February 21, contains the following annunciation of hostilities having commenced against the regency of Algiers, by the British fleet stationed off that port. The causes of this warlike declaration are said to be twofold; one, the refusal on the part of the Dey to make reparation for an insult offered to the British consular flag; the other, a declaration that he was no longer to observe the terms of a treaty made with him not to retain any christian captives of any nation in a state of slavery:

Admiralty Office, Feb. 21, 1824.

Despatches, dated the 31st of last month and 1st inst. have this morning been received at this office from the honorable Captain Spencer, of his majesty's ship Naiad, who had been directed to proceed to Algiers to make, in conjunction with his majesty's consul at that regency, a remonstrance against some late proceedings of the Dey, stating that his negotiation had ended unsatisfactorily, and that the consul was obliged to strike the British flag, and embark on board his majesty's ship.

Captain Spencer further reports, that having met an Algerine corvette, he felt it, under his instructions, his duty to attack her, and that she was laid on board, and captured in the most handsome manner, by his majesty's brig Cameleon, when Captain Spencer had the satisfaction to find that he had rescued seventeen Spaniards, whom the Algerine was carrying into slavery.

Admiralty Office, Feb. 21, 1824.

This is to give notice, that the lords commissioners of the admiralty will immediately appoint convoys to afford protection to the trade through the Straits of Gibraltar, and within the Mediterranean, until the differences with the regency of Algiers shall be arranged. J. W. CROKER.

The King of France had transmitted a complimentary letter to the Swiss cantons in reply to their congratulation on his conquest of Spain; and still further to show their subserviency to the views of the holy alliance, a new ordinance had been published at Geneva, subjecting foreigners to personal appearance before the police on their arrival, and at the alien office, if their residence should exceed three weeks, under the penalties of fine and imprisonment for non-conformance.

Information had been received in London that the Hon. Leicester Stanhope, who had been for some time attempting to form a corps of artillery in Greece, had succeeded to the utmost extent of his wishes, and boasted that the Greeks had now a force more than sufficient to subdue all the fortresses in the hands of the Turks. Lord Byron continued to be the soul of the Greek cause, and was so popular that the primates of Missolunghi had elected him a member of their council. His lordship sold an estate for the purpose of providing for the expenditure of the war, until the produce of the loan should have been received from London, which, with the subscriptions raised there and in other places, were anxiously looked for. The London Courier, of the 21st of February, contains Mr. Webster's speech on the Greek question, at full length.

The excavations had commenced in the river Thames for the intended new London bridge.

DRAWING

OF THE

UNION CANAL LOTTERY,

Ninth Class—New Series.

THE Subscribers, Commissioners appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to superintend the drawing of the Union Canal Lottery, Ninth Class, New Series, do hereby certify that the following were the numbers which were this day drawn, viz

6, 19, 21, 3,

and that the said numbers were drawn in the order in which they stand above; that is to say, No. 6 was the first that was drawn; No. 19 was the second, No. 21 was the third, and No. 3 was the fourth.

Witness our hands, at the city of Philadelphia, this 25th day of March, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-four.

THOMAS LEIPER,
ANDREW BAYARD,
ANDREW PETTIT.

Attest—JOHN ROBERTS, Secretary.

From the preceding certificate, it will be seen what numbers were drawn from the wheel, for determining the prizes in the Union Canal Lottery, Ninth Class, New Series, with the order in which they were drawn—and the Manager has the honor to announce to the public the following as the result.

The ticket which drew the prize of $2080 is that having on it the three first drawn Nos. in the order in which they were drawn, viz 6, 19, 21.

The five tickets which drew prizes of $1000 each, are those having on them the same Nos. in the other orders of combination and permutation, viz.

6 21 19
19 21 6
19 6 1
21 6 19
21 19 6
} each $1000.

The six tickets which drew prizes of $200 each, are those having on them the 1st, 2d and 4th drawn Nos. in the various orders of combination and permutation, viz.

6 19 3
6 3 19
19 6 3
19 3 6
3 19 6
3 6 19
} each $200.

The 12 tickets which drew prizes of $100 each, are those having on them the 1st, 3d and 4th, or the 2d, 3d and 4th drawn Nos. in the various orders of combination and permutation, viz.

6 21 3 — 19 21 3
6 3 21 — 19 3 21
21 6 3 — 21 19 3
21 3 6 — 21 3 19
3 6 21 — 3 21 19

Pluck not the buds and the leaves be thy path.

And that one may forever be found. [Scottish.
He is by thee, around thee, He lists to thy cry,
And thy tears are recorded by him—
A pillar of fire like will beam thine eye,
Whose brightness no shadow can dim.
O follow it still, through the darkness of night,
In safety 'tis lifted to the morrow—
For pure is the beam, and unfolding the sight
That the tempests assail it in vain;
When the mists of this world are all vanish'd away,
In its brightness it still will remain;
And weep not that none are around thee to love,
For a Father is with thee to bless;
And if griefs have crushed thy spirit above,
O say wouldst thou wish for one here?
He is with thee, whose favor forever is life;
Could a mortal heart guard thee so well?
Hush the vain wish, calm thy bosom's wild strife,
And forbid but a thought to rebel.

CANDID ORATORS.

It is usual for some Congressional Orators to clear their voices with candy, and one member is said to have lately risen with a stick of that article in each hand—on which occurrence the Roanoke Sentinel has the following lines.

With razor keen
As e'er was seen,
A Barbour surnamed Phil,
In Congress rose,
And by the nose
Took Mr. Hemphill's bill.

In rage affright,
At such a sight,
I saw a Jersey Dandy
Attempt to slay
The razor's way
With sticks of Sugar Candy.

Miscellany.

IMPRISONMENT OF THE LEARNED.

Imprisonment seems not much to have disturbed the train of letters in the progress of his studies.

It was in prison that Boethius composed his excellent book, on the Consolations of Philosophy.

Grotius wrote in his confinement, his Commentary on St. Matthew.

Barbosan, in the dungeon of a monestery in Portugal, composed his excellent Paraphrases on the Psalms of David.

Peiresc, during five years' confinement for some state affairs, pursued with ardor his studies in the Greek Language, in Philosophy, and particularly in Theology, and produced several good compositions.

Michael Cervantes composed the best and most agreeable book in the Spanish Language during his captivity in Barbary.

Fleta, a well known and very excellent little law production, was written by a person confined in the Fleet prison for debt, but whose name has not been preserved.

Louis the Twelfth, when he was Duke of Orleans, being taken prisoner at the battle of St. Aubin, was long confined in the Tower of Bourges; and, applying himself to his studies, which he had hitherto neglected, he became in consequence an able and enlightened monarch.

Margaret, Queen of Henry the Fourth, King of France, confined in the Louvre, pursued very warmly the studies of literature; and composed a very skilful Apology for the irregularities of her conduct.

Charles the First, during his cruel confinement at Holmby, wrote that excellent book, entitled, The Portrait of a King, which he addressed to his son, and where political reflections will be found not unworthy of Tacitus. This work has, however, been attributed by his enemies, to Dr. Gawden, who was thankable of writing a single paragraph of it.

Queen Elizabeth, while confined by her sister Mary, wrote some very charming poems, which we do not find she ever could equal after her enlargement; and Mary, Queen of Scots, during her long imprisonment by Elizabeth, produced many pleasing poetic compositions.

Sir Walter Raleigh produced, in his confinement, his History of the World; of whom it is observed, to employ the language of Hume, "they had leisure to reflect on the hardship, not to say the injustice, of his sentence. They plied his active and enterprising spirit, which languished in the rigors of confinement. They were struck with the extensive genius of the man who, being educated amidst naval and military enterprises, had purposed in the pursuits of literature even those of the most recluse and sedentary lives; and they admired his unbroken magnanimity, which, at his age, and under his circumstances, could engage him to undertake and execute so great a work as his History of the World."

POMPOUS ELOQUENCE.

Lucian, in his Ridiculous Orator, has given some advice to those Orators who would be affectedly learned, which might not have been altogether misapplied to some, who made such an effulgent display of their gleanings from the classical dictionary, in the debate on the Greek resolutions.—Salem Observer.

"If you are to make an harangue," says he, "take no notice at all of the matter in hand; but briskly drive at all, without even minding method or subject; it is a great point gained if you don't blunder. Be always talking of Alexander and Quinquevir, perfumed Attics, double the Rhetorics, calculate the Sun with Persian answers, let the hearers be absorbed by their supernatural harangue. Give Xerxes chains, subdue Lacedæmon, explain the singing chamæleon of Olympus, talk freely of Scythia, Armenia and Media. Be sure you dialogue, quibble, dance, contradict yourself, and go naked (if possible) as the talking of Troy, or the deluge of Deucalion. If you are here, few will find you out, and those who have capacity enough to do it, will have discretion enough to pass it by in silence."

Laughable Typographical Blunders.—In the report of Mr. Hamilton's speech on the Tariff question, as lately published in the National Intelligencer, there appeared the following curious remark:

"The New-England River of Connecticut was as much the result of domestic industry, as the corn and whiskey of Kentucky was of the nerve and fibre of her sons."

This occasioned Mr. Hamilton to address a note to the editors, informing them that he said "the rum of New-England was," &c. The editor of the New-York Evening Post, in some remarks on this subject, notices an error, which appeared in a New-York paper a few years since, where instead of "Dr. P. Lee's worm destroying lozenges; a never failing remedy," the Doctor was made to advertise "Bumbleton's worm destroying foreigners; an ever failing remedy."

A rich farmer having a wife who frequently got intoxicated with cider, threatened to bury her alive, and accordingly provided her a coffin. Madam paid little attention to it. Soon after she was taken up dead drunk, and conveyed into the table shelf. The moment she revived, supposing herself in another world, she knocked forcibly against the lid, and thus addressed the inhabitants "Children of this world, have you any cyder there?"

Ministerial.

FRUGALITY DISTINGUISHED FROM AVARICE.

Economy differs from avarice, not merely in degree, but in kind. The utmost excess of frugality never sinks into avarice; nor does the lowest degree of avarice ever amount to frugality. They proceed from different propensities, they avail themselves of different means, they are directed to different ends. Avarice accumulates, for the sake of accumulating; economy spares for the sake of use. Avarice becomes, at last, a distempered passion, and money the more it is gained, is loved and hoarded more solicitously, merely because it is money. Economy does not grow more saving, as the means of expense are multiplied: it lays by, with a view to some future accommodation, but with less scrupulosity, the more it has to deposit.—Avarice, even when it is cheated into bounty, reluctantly parts with the little that it yields; economy never gives merely on compulsion, and is often grieved that it dares not bestow a more ample favor.—Avarice, always intent on minute savings, is frequently blind, and is sometimes betrayed by her rapacity into serious losses; economy, while she gathers up the fragments that remain is never hurried, by a thirst of gain, into imprudent and destructive speculations. Avarice regards only money, or what it represents; economy is a branch of that comprehensive prudence which knows how to be frugal of every thing; of time, opportunities and talents, as well as wealth.

The highest benevolence of character, may consist with a habit of well regulated and moderate expenditure, and consists, indeed, with nothing else, but it is the curse of the avaricious man, to experience the miseries of pure selfishness, to be at once envious of the rising prosperity of others, and anxious about his own possessions, to be ever afraid of losing, and still more afraid to give, because he sees nothing in bounty but deliberate waste and uncompensated diminution.

In short, frugality will associate with any of the virtues, and becomes herself the parent of others, and not only of virtues, but of a thousand permanent comforts; avarice, in its very nature, defeats its own wishes, and encounters from others nothing but enmity and contempt. When mature, it sheds a blasting influence over the finest affections and sweetest comforts of mankind. Men spontaneously combine to detest it, and God, the most bountiful of beings, looks down with abhorrence on a spirit which does nothing but counteract his benevolent designs.

Importance of Female Education.—Who is it that moulds and directs the character of our boys for the first ten or twelve years of their life?—Not the father; for such are his engagements, or such the state and reserve of his manners, that his sons but rarely come in contact with him. No; it is in the nursery; it is in the gentle and attractive society of the mother; it is in her affectionate bosom and on her lap that the blossoms of the heart and mind begin their bloom; it is she who treads the twig, and thus decides the character of the tree. How then ought she to be accomplished for this important office! How wide and diversified her reading and information! How numerous the historic models of great men with which her memory should be stored! How grand and noble the tone of her own character!

CURE FOR THE MUMPS.

Make a liniment of Spirits of Hartshorn, Æther, Vitriol, Camphorated Spirits of Wine, and Sweet Oil, in equal quantities: shake them well together before using the composition. Bathe the cheek where it is most affected two or three times in the course of the day, and particularly at night before going to bed.—This remedy has had an almost magical effect in two cases which came under my own notice within two weeks past. The remedy was first devised and applied by a married lady of this town.

COMMISSION HOUSE,

Louisville, Ky.

B. B. McIlvaine & Co.

TAKE this method of informing their friends, that they have made an establishment at this place, in connexion with their Warehouse at "Upper Portland," for the transaction of a general commission business, including the collection of debts, the purchase and sale, receiving, storing and forwarding of every description of produce and merchandise, trusting to the peculiar advantages of their situation and warehouse, to obtain for them a large share of public patronage. To persons at a distance there will be no commission charged for advance of freight, provided the sum advanced be repaid within ten days, or when the owner of the property, residing in any town in which there is established a branch of the Bank of the United States, shall make satisfactory arrangements for the payment of our drafts upon him.

The business will be exclusively conducted by B. B. McIlvaine, under the firm of B. B. McIlvaine & Co.

Louisville, Dec. 12, 1823.

Upper Portland Warehouse

THE subscribers inform the public that they are now prepared to receive, store, and forward every kind of produce and merchandise, having, at a great expense, erected (about 300 yards below Mr. N. Berthoud's) a commodious Warehouse, 100 feet in length by 50 in width, rising seven stories in height from the foundation, on a rock at low water mark, each story affording convenient doors for the discharge and receipt of cargoes from steam boats. Wharves have been constructed, extending on each side of the building 130 feet, alongside which and the warehouse, steam boats can lie at any stage of the river.

To save the expense of drayage, &c. to secure property from injury by weather, either during its reception from wagons or its shipment upon steam boats, wagons will be admitted through an arched way into the building, and their loading passed directly into vessels, without any additional charge or expense.

All letters on business connected with the Warehouse should be addressed to Messrs. B. B. McIlvaine & Co Louisville, who have the entire control of its affairs.

Dec. 12, 1823.—[Jan. 9, 1824—3m.]

To the Public.

HAVING seen an attempt to injure our Improved Inclined Side Spinner, we deem it our duty to answer it. Were all people judges of principles, and would they take the pains to examine, we should be freed from the disagreeable task of refuting this attack, emanating from ignorance or something more degrading to its author. Mr. Beares says we have infringed upon the right of the Vertical Spinner, by using the same principles, but varying the construction, which shows he is ignorant of what has been patented to him, supposing that his whole machine has been patented, not excepting the most common principles. Driving belts by wheels, and spindles by belts, pinching the rolls by jaws, determining their length by a gauge, drawing them out as they are twisted, guiding the threads by guides, are all common principles, have been long in use, and consequently can never be patented; which leaves Mr. B with the bare construction, the suspension of the slide by weights, and its perpendicular motion. What should "prompt Messrs. Cary and Sweetland to expose their ignorance of principles, by seconding the opinions of Mr. B. we do not pretend to say; but this we do say, that the whole proceedings indicate the most ungenerous principles or the grossest ignorance. We now challenge them to come forward, and give some reason, if any they have, for their proceedings, or consider themselves beneath our further notice. As for the prosecution threatened by Mr. B. we assure him that it shall never have the least effect upon our sales.

In Congress rose,
And by the nose
Took Mr. Hemphill's bill.

In sore affright,
At such a sight,
I saw a Jersey Dandy
Attempt to stay
The razor's sway
With sticks of Sugar Candy.

IMPRISONMENT OF THE LEARNED.

Imprisonment seems not much to have disturbed the man of letters in the progress of his studies.

It was in prison that Boethius composed his excellent book, on the Consolations of Philosophy.

Grotius wrote in his confinement, his Commentary on St. Matthew.

Buchanan, in the dungeon of a monestery in Portugal, composed his excellent Paraphrases on the Psalms of David.

Pelisson, during five years' confinement for some state affairs, pursued with ardor his studies in the Greek Language, in Philosophy, and particularly in Theology, and produced several good compositions.

Michael Cervantes composed the best and most agreeable book in the Spanish Language during his captivity in Barbary.

Fleta, a well known and very excellent little law production, was written by a person confined in the Fleet prison for debt, but whose name has not been preserved.

Louis the Twelfth, when he was Duke of Orleans, being taken prisoner at the battle of St. Auban, was long confined in the Tower of Bourges; and, applying himself to his studies, which he had hitherto neglected, he became in consequence an able and enlightened monarch.

Margaret, Queen of Henry the Fourth, King of France, confined in the Louvre, pursued very warmly the studies of literature; and composed a very skilful Apology for the irregularities of her conduct.

Charles the First, during his cruel confinement at Holmsby, wrote that excellent book, entitled, The Portrait of a King; which he addressed to his son, and where political reflections will be found not unworthy of Tacitus. This work has, however, been attributed by his enemies, to Dr. Gawden, who was incapable of writing a single paragraph of it.

Queen Elizabeth, while confined by her sister Mary, wrote some very charming poems, which we do not find she ever could equal after her enlargement; and Mary, Queen of Scots, during her long imprisonment by Elizabeth, produced many pleasing poetic compositions.

Sir Walter Raleigh produced, in his confinement, his History of the World; of whom it is observed, to employ the language of Hume, "they had leisure to reflect on the hardship, not to say the injustice, of his sentence. They pitied his active and enterprising spirit, which languished in the rigors of confinement. They were struck with the extensive genius of the man who, being educated amidst naval and military enterprises, had surpassed in the pursuits of literature even those of the most recluse and sedentary lives; and they admired his unbroken magnanimity, which, at his age, and under his circumstances, could engage him to undertake and execute so great a work as his History of the World."

POMPOUS ELOQUENCE.

Lucian, in his Ridiculous Orator, has given some advice to those Orators who would be affectedly learned, which might not have been altogether misapplied to some, who made such an effulgent display of their gleanings from the classical dictionary, in the debate on the Greek resolutions.—Salem Observer.

"If you are to make an harangue," says he, "take no notice at all of the matter in hand; but briskly drive at all, without even minding method or subject; it is a great point gained if you don't blunder. Be always talking of Marathon and Cynagyrus, perforate Athos, shackle the Hellespont, obfuscate the Sun with Persian arrows, let the rivers be absorbed by their numerous battalions. Give Xerxes chase, celebrate Leonidas, explain the sanguine characters of Othrys-ades, talk freely of Salamis, Artemisium and Platæa. Be sure you deduce matters from their remotest sources, and go as far backward (if possible) as the taking of Troy, or the deluge of Deucalion. If you err here, few will find you out, and those who have capacity enough to do it, will have candor enough to pass it by in silence."

Laughable Typographical Blunders.—In the report of Mr. Hamilton's Speech on the Tariff question, as lately published in the National Intelligencer, there appeared the following curious remark:

"The New-England River of Connecticut was as much the result of domestic industry, as the corn and whiskey of Kentucky was of the nerve and fibre of her sons."

This occasioned Mr. Hamilton to address a note to the editors, informing them that he said "the rum of New-England was," &c. The editor of the New-York Evening Post, in some remarks on this subject, notices an error, which appeared in a New-York paper a few years since, when instead of "Dr. P. Lee's worm destroying lozenges; a never failing remedy," the Doctor was made to advertise "Bumbleton's storm destroying poringers; an ever failing remedy."

A rich farmer having a wife who frequently got intoxicated with cider, threatened to bury her alive, and accordingly provided her a coffin. Madam paid little attention to it. Soon after she was taken up dead drunk, and conveyed into the sable shell. The moment she revived, supposing herself in another world, she knocked forcibly against the lid, and thus addressed the inhabitants: "Children of this world, have you any GOOD CIDER?"

Monitorial.

FRUGALITY DISTINGUISHED FROM AVARICE.

Economy differs from avarice, not merely in degree, but in kind. The utmost excess of frugality never sinks into avarice; nor does the lowest degree of avarice ever amount to frugality. They proceed from different propensities, they avail themselves of different means, they are directed to different ends. Avarice accumulates, for the sake of accumulating; economy spares for the sake of use. Avarice becomes, at last, a distempered passion, and money the more it is gained, is loved and hoarded more solicitously, merely because it is money. Economy does not grow more saving, as the means of expense are multiplied: it lays by, with a view to some future accommodation, but with less scrupulosity, the more it has to deposit.—Avarice, even when it is cheated into bounty, reluctantly parts with the little that it yields; economy never gives merely on compulsion, and is often grieved that it dares not bestow a more ample favor.—Avarice, always intent on minute savings, is frequently blind, and is sometimes betrayed by her rapacity into serious losses; economy, while she gathers up the fragments that remain is never hurried, by a thirst of gain, into imprudent and destructive speculations. Avarice regards only money, or what it represents; economy is a branch of that comprehensive prudence which knows how to be frugal of every thing; of time, opportunities and talents, as well as wealth.

The highest benevolence of character, may consist with a habit of well regulated and moderate expenditure, and consists, indeed, with nothing else, but it is the curse of the avaricious man, to experience the miseries of pure selfishness, to be at once envious of the rising prosperity of others, and anxious about his own possessions, to be ever afraid of losing, and still more afraid to give, because he sees nothing in bounty but deliberate waste and uncompensated diminution.

In short, frugality will associate with any of the virtues, and becomes herself the parent of others, and not only of virtues, but of a thousand permanent comforts; avarice, in its very nature, defeats its own wishes, and encounters from others nothing but enmity and contempt. When mature, it sheds a blasting influence over the finest affections and sweetest comforts of mankind. Men spontaneously combine to detest it, and God, the most bountiful of beings, looks down with abhorrence on a spirit which does nothing but counteract his benevolent designs.

Importance of Female Education.—Who is it that moulds and directs the character of our boys for the first ten or twelve years of their life?—Not the father; for such are his engagements, or such the state and reserve of his manners, that his sons but rarely come in contact with him. No; it is in the nursery; it is in the gentle and attractive society of the mother; it is in her affectionate bosom and on her lap that the blossoms of the heart and mind begin their bloom; it is she who tends the twig, and thus decides the character of the tree. How then ought she to be accomplished for this important office! How wide and diversified her reading and information! How numerous the historic models of great men with which her memory should be stored! How grand and noble the tone of her own character!

CURE FOR THE MUMPS.

Make a liniment of Spirits of Hartshorn, Æther, Vitriol, Camphorated Spirits of Wine, and Sweet Oil, in equal quantities: shake them well together before using the composition. Bathe the cheek where it is most affected two or three times in the course of the day, and particularly at night before going to bed.—This remedy has had an almost magical effect in two cases which came under my own notice within two weeks past. The remedy was first devised and applied by a married lady of this town.

COMMISSION HOUSE,
Louisville, Ky.

B. R. McIlvaine & Co.

TAKE this method of informing their friends, that they have made an establishment at this place, in connexion with their Warehouse at "Upper Portland," for the transaction of a general commission business, including the collection of debts, the purchase and sale, receiving, storing and forwarding of every description of produce and merchandise, trusting to the peculiar advantages of their situation and warehouse, to obtain for them a large share of public patronage. To persons at a distance there will be no commission charged for advance of freight, provided the sum advanced be repaid within ten days, or when the owner of the property, residing in any town in which there is established a branch of the Bank of the United States, shall make satisfactory arrangements for the payment of our drafts upon him.

The business will be exclusively conducted by B. R. McIlvaine, under the firm of B. R. McIlvaine & Co.

Louisville, Dec. 12, 1823.

Upper Portland Warehouse

THE subscribers inform the public that they are now prepared to receive, store, and forward every kind of produce and merchandise, having, at a great expense, erected (about 300 yards below Mr. N. Berthoud's) a commodious Warehouse, 100 feet in length by 50 in width, rising seven stories in height from the foundation, on a rock at low water mark, each story affording convenient doors for the discharge and receipt of cargoes from steam boats. Wharves have been constructed, extending on each side of the building 130 feet, alongside which and the warehouse, steam boats can lie at any stage of the river.

To save the expense of drayage, &c. to secure property from injury by weather, either during its reception from wagons or its shipment upon steam boats, wagons will be admitted through an arched way into the building, and their loading passed directly into vessels, without any additional charge or expense.

All letters on business connected with the Warehouse should be addressed to Messrs. B. R. McIlvaine & Co. Louisville, who have the entire control of its affairs.

Dec. 12, 1823.—[Jan. 9, 1824—3m.]

To the Public.

HAVING seen an attempt to injure our Improved Inclined Side Spinner, we deem it our duty to answer it. Were all people judges of principles, and would they take the pains to examine, we should be freed from the disagreeable task of refuting this attack, emanating from ignorance or something more degrading to its author. Mr. Beares says we have infringed upon the right of the Vertical Spinner, by using the same principles, but varying the construction, which shows he is ignorant of what has been patented to him, supposing that his whole machine has been patented, not excepting the most common principles. Driving belts by wheels, and spindles by belts, pinching the rolls by jaws, determining their length by a gauge, drawing them out as they are twisted, guiding the threads by guides, are all common principles, have been long in use, and consequently can never be patented; which leaves Mr. B with the bare construction, the suspension of the slide by weights, and its perpendicular motion. What should prompt Messrs. Cary and Sweetland to expose their ignorance of principles, by seconding the opinions of Mr. B. we do not pretend to say; but this we do say, that the whole proceedings indicate the most ungenerous principles or the grossest ignorance. We now challenge them to come forward, and give some reason, if any they have, for their proceedings, or consider themselves beneath our further notice. As for the prosecution threatened by Mr. B. we assure him that it shall never have the least effect upon our sales.
